FUTURE PICKS

♣ Following on from our Future Picks comments back in CVM #67, this month's cover features the action-packed Justice League poster drawn by Dan Jurgens and Rick Burchett. We have also included the cover of BRAVE & THE BOLD #28 as a teaser for the release of DC's JUSTICE LEAGUE ARCHIVES Volume 1 which reprints the early JLA appearances (BRAVE & THE BOLD #28-30 and JUSTICE LEAGUE OF AMERICA #1-6). These items are just the beginning of a major Justice League push. JUSTICE LEAGUE SPECTACULAR #1 reunites the broken-down Justice League under the leadership of Superman following the Panic in the Sky storyline in the Superman titles. The two covers for this issue feature the new JLA and JLE line-ups. The new creative teams, led by editor Brian Augustyn, will pick up their newly created super teams in JLA #61 and JLE #37. The Justice League shake-up has already created rumblings among dealers and collectors. As the Justice League era moves forward, we take a moment to reflect on the recent passing of Sheldon Mayer, the editor/cartoonist that discovered Superman over 50 years ago and helped usher in the Golden Age of comic books and the genesis of the superhero. (Our thanks to DC with supplying our front cover illustration on such short notice.)

♣ Moving on to Marvel's hottest item of the month: Stores are reporting sellouts of ALPHA FLIGHT #106. This issue is a milestone for the comic book industry. It establishes the first time that a mainstream superhero is presented as a member of the gay community. For long time Alpha Flight fans, this may not come as such a big shock as the series has hinted at the fact for some time. This aspect of Northstar's personality has been alluded to as far back as ALPHA FLIGHT #22. With the second printing on the shelf, first printings of #106 are already moving in price.

♣ From past and present to Marvel's future projects: Nearer to the end of 1992, Marvel jumps to the next century with the release of MARVEL 2093. Four new monthly series (SPIDER-MAN 2093, DOOM 2093, RAVAGE 2093 and PUNISHER 2093) will introduce readers to a future Marvel Universe. More on this closer to the 21st century.

♣ We move back in time to the summer of 1992 to spotlight Marvel's X-annual releases. Unlike the "still" reaction of the X-annuals last year, this year's Shattershot story should move forward for mutie maniacs. We will discover that there's more to Shatterstar and Longshot than meets the "eye."

♣ Other possible Marvel movers include: a Rob Liefeld CABLE mini-series; the new NOMAD mini-series (complete with gatefold cover with map for his first issue); and ol' brimstone bonehead's 20th anniversary celebration in GHOST RIDER #25. GR #25 will be 52 pages with a center spread pop-up of big bully Blackout doin' something not so nice to ol' Danny boy (not for the squeamish). In addition, this edition will contain pin-ups foreshadowing this summer's release of RISE OF THE MIDNIGHT SONS.

♣ And, you don't have to wait for other sinister doin's at the midnight hour. Check out a few titles coming your way from Apple Comics, Dark Horse and Millenium. Apple springs to action with their March release of DARK FANTASY. Kevin Schnaper's sf/fantasy/horror stories should "a peel" (Arrrrggh!) to fans of the EC/CREEPY style. Talking about creepy, Dark Horse's bi-monthly four part CREEPY will feature new stories written and drawn by "fang" favorites including Peter David, Kieron Dwyer, Tom Sutton, Gene Colan and Steve Leialoha. Millenium has put together own impressive line-up with such notables as Harlan Ellison, John Bolton, Kelley Jones, Tim Vigil, P.Craig Russell, Faye Perozich and Eddy Newell contributing to the upcoming WEIRD TALES ILLUSTRATED-- classic horror and fantasy for all demonic disciples.

♣ Not scared yet, huh? Okay, step out of the light with DARK SHADOWS or stay awake with NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET: THE BEGINNING from Innovation. Check the back of your head for Fleetway's 666: THE MARK OF THE BEAST. If that doesn't grab you, go totally nuts with MADMAN from Tundra.

♣ From madness to mercenaries, what do Wonder Woman, Superman, The New Titans and the new Vigilante have in common? The answer is Deathstroke the Terminator with his eye on all these heroes. He appears in the "Operation: Cheetah" storyline in WONDER WOMAN SPECIAL #1 and WONDER WOMAN #63 in addition to teaming with the Vigilante in DEATHSTROKE THE TERMINATOR #10 and #11. Following this, he can be found together with Superman in NEW TITANS #87, SUPERMAN #68 and at odds with The Man of Steel in #12 and #13 of his own title. On the cutting edge, this hero is on everybody's "wanted" list.

♣ And from the power ring, it's Jordan in the green corner versus Gardner in the other green corner. The winner gets the G.L. Earth spot while the loser "throws in the ring" and is booted out of the G.L. Corps. Catch the match in GREEN LANTERN #25. And, where's John Stewart in the middle of all this? Watch for his own title, GREEN LANTERN: MOSAIC, trying to recruit new Green Lanterns among dealers and collectors with glow-in-the-dark giveaway power rings. (Guy Gardner haircuts are optional.)

♣ Now that you've made your bets for the Lantern bout, it's time for a few CVM hot title tips: SANCTUARY managed by Viz at 7:1; CYBERSUIT ARKADYNE managed by Ianus Publ. at 11:1; STRIKE FORCE: AMERICA managed by Comico at 5:1; PLANET OF THE APES: SINS OF THE FATHER trained by Adventure, managed by Malibu at 7:2: DISNEY COMICS 3-D managed by Disney at 4:1; THE CRUSADERS trained by Impact, managed by DC complete with scorecard at 2:1; and HARD BOILED #3 a late entry and the Dark Horse of the CVMatch at 20:1.

♣ Readers, place your bets... and they're off. More tips next month!

DC

DC has had its problems with delays and stupid storylines. Changes are in order. LOBO is finally coming back – timing is everything folks! The Superman and Batman titles hold their own, while Green Lantern and Aquaman pick up steam. ROBIN II did very well except for #4. What happened, not enough hologram covers? Notice a pattern here? Well, Silver Age DC has been going through the roof! Marvel may be king of the current releases but DC has the back issue market hopping. BATMAN/PREDATOR did very well, but minis like OUTLAWS, RAGMAN and BRAVE AND BOLD were real bow-wows. Give Robin his own book!

MARVEL

Marvel is making its stockholders very happy; they are cranking out product like there is no tomorrow. Look for more of the same gimmick covers and new titles up the wazoo! I expect all the hot popular titles to continue to sell well. I have one big problem with all of this. Retailers' order forms for February contained a solicitation for, of all things, a Captain America movie adaptation! Are they nuts?! Not only are they trying to sell a comic book version of a poorly made unreleased movie, but it comes on the heels of the four issue ADVENTURES OF CAPTAIN AMERICA! What next, the trade paperback version the month after? Get real, out there. And, all you buyers, don't be lured in by the hype. Buy what you like and ignore the gimmicks and the obvious crap!

INDEPENDENTS

If you look hard enough, you can find some quality art and stories in the indies. Dark Horse continues to grow and impress. ALIENS, TERMINATORS, PREDATOR and now STAR WARS are gaining strength. Innovation is also picking up. Surprise of the year is the Valiant line. MAGNUS, SOLAR and X-O are doing well in new and back issues. Keep an eye on those Archies – they're still fun after all these years!

BATMAN, DETECTIVE and LEGENDS OF THE DARK KNIGHT cross-over series "Destruction" sold well. HELLBLAZER selling better and better along with JUSTICE LEAGUE AMERICA, JUSTICE LEAGUE EUROPE, NEW TITANS, and AQUAMAN. ANIMAL MAN, ARMAGEDDON: ALIEN AGENDA, BRAVE AND THE BOLD and LEGION OF SUPER HEROES are slowing down. SANDMAN is still the big seller for DC. ROBIN II, boo! Multiple covers, bah! No more, please!! The LOBO PARAMILITARY CHRISTMAS SPECIAL sold like snow cones in Hades.

MARVEL

As usual, the X-titles are selling gangbusters, but others are moving as well: AKIRA, AMAZING SPIDER-MAN, DAREDEVIL, DARKHAWK, GHOST RIDER, GUARDIANS OF THE GALAXY, INCREDIBLE HULK continues to surprise as does PUNISHER (with the change of face) and SILVER SURFER and SPIDER-MAN (even without Todd McFarlane). WOLVERINE #50 sold great and it seems to have carried over to the rest of the issues.

INDEPENDENTS

All the Valiant titles are doing well, including SOLAR: MAN OF THE ATOM, HARBINGER and X-O MANOWAR. Dark Horse does it again with the new STAR WARS and THE THING FROM ANOTHER WORLD. Big disappointment: INTERVIEW WITH A VAMPIRE and QUEEN OF THE DAMNED.

As the year ended, Dark Horse and Tundra proved that black and white comics are possible if there is quality. Good example, BILLI 99; excellent story, great art black and white.

DC

Strange scheduling caused both good and bad movement this month. Big books and hot books arriving too close together (LEGION OF SUPER HEROES ARCHIVES, Batman crossovers (DRACULA, JUDGE DREDD, PREDATOR)) sold out rather quickly. However, customers were so strapped for cash after purchasing 211 of these, all regular comics sat on the rack. New TITANS and DEATHSTROKE continue to rise, along with Batman and Superman titles. WARLORD, BLACK CANARY and ELONGATED MAN (although it's an excellent comic) are dogs. A trend developing with Impact titles being released all at once is that people decided right away what they didn't like (WEB and JAGUAR).

MARVEL

X-books, of course, still remain strong. Larsen's SPIDER-MAN is slowly gaining acceptance (watch out). Fans are starting to feel betrayed by McFarlane and soon will be by Liefeld. The raise to $1.25 interestingly affected sales on Baxter books like SHIELD, PUNISHER WAR JOURNAL and GHOST RIDER (gee, no guest stars for three months). WARLOCK sold like crazy and HEARTS OF DARKNESS did very well also.

INDEPENDENTS

STAR WARS from Dark Horse is a big hit. It added old Marvel readers to the usual Dark Horse crowd. The movie titles are still gaining in sales, although I can tell that ALIENS, TERMINATOR and PREDATOR may be falling out of favor. Dark Horse needs more new series like NEXT MEN to keep up its great numbers. Valiant's strategy of bringing in customers one new book at a time is excellent (see Impact above). GREEN HORNET titles from Now and PARANOIA from Adventure are respectable.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Eclipse, Kitchen Sink, Tundra, etc. better get me something even slightly towards the mainline to keep their presence in my stores. I want to support all alternative press the best I can to diversify my product line, but in a recessive economy, all retailers must keep inventory as tight as possible.

BATMAN VS PREDATOR is selling extremely well – a combination of an excellent package with an excellent story. BATMAN/JUDGE DREDD and BATMAN/DRACULA were also big hits. Keep an eye out for LOBO'S BACK. However, DC's ROBIN II DELUXE COLLECTOR'S SET was a major disappointment. Poorly done, it was just not worth the money. Perhaps next time, DC will farm out this kind of project to someone like Graphitti, whom they have used in the past (with excellent results).

MARVEL

Gimmick Cover Month! At least it seems so, what with the arrivals of PUNISHER #50, PUNISHER WAR ZONE #1, HELLRAISER #10 and HEARTS OF DARKNESS. However, they do seem to be working and their prices are climbing rapidly. WOLVERINE #50 (and other issues in general) are selling out as fast as we can get them in. PUNISHER WAR ZONE #1 has been flying off the shelves. MARVEL COMICS PRESENTS, DEATHLOK and AMAZING SPIDER-MAN are also hot. Look for WARLOCK AND THE INFINITY WATCH to take off–early issues are going to be scarce. Also, GHOST RIDER #25, HULK #393 and the X-Annuals (Shattershot).

INDEPENDENTS

As usual, Dark Horse is far and away leading the pack. PREDATOR is the biggest with ALIENS and TERMINATOR close behind. STAR WARS: DARK EMPIRE is going to be very hot. THE MASK and NEXT MEN are the best-selling non-licensed titles. Innovation has a great thing going with its Anne Rice licensed titles. Valiant has been a surprise, with SOLAR, MAGNUS and HARBINGER selling strongly. And, Tundra may have an enormous hit on its hands with THE CROW selling off the shelves as fast as we get them.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

I hope you bought some Marvel stock when it came out at $16.50 a share because as of the beginning of January, it was trading at nearly $50 a share. Watch for a split very soon. When it does, $$$.

The Superman "Panic in the Sky" storyline is selling really well and SUPERMAN #65 is in big demand. Many consider SUPERMAN #65 the first appearance of the new Justice League. LEGENDS OF THE DARK KNIGHT, the STAR TREK titles and BATMAN/PREDATOR are selling well. The LOBO stuff is still moving. The Impact material is slowing down, but there's interest in the trading card issues. The interest is spilling over into the Archie/Red Circle CRUSADERS titles of the 1980's. BATMAN/DRACULA: RED RAIN is hard to find. My distributor told me that it sold out.

MARVEL

All the X-stuff is selling very well except for EXCALIBUR. SILVER SURFER, INCREDIBLE HULK and WOLVERINE are moving, and PUNISHER WAR ZONE #1 and ADAM WARLOCK AND THE INFINITY WATCH #1 have been really huge. ALPHA FLIGHT #106 is really big. The second printing just came out and it flew off like a shot. "Operation: Galactic Storm" is doing better than I thought, about three times my estimate. Prior to this, AVENGERS were slacking off. PUNISHER WAR JOURNAL sales are flat, if not dead. BILL & TED'S EXCELLENT ADVENTURE isn't so excellent. However, Marvel is a company that can do no wrong.

INDEPENDENTS

ALIENS picked up, but PREDATOR has slacked off. Sales levels of these titles appear to vary depending on which movie is forthcoming. Valiant sales are dropping. In contrast, the adult stuff is selling 10% higher than what it used to be. The Anne Rice books are slowing down. INTERVIEW WITH A VAMPIRE #1 sold well because of the art. #2's art sucked. Nevertheless, Innovation and Eclipse's continual lateness hurts their sales. There's a lot of interest in YOUNGBLOOD. PARANOIA and the Cthulhu Mythos titles are selling very well.

The recent CERBUS giveaway is going to promote sales. People are constantly asking for FAUST and CRY FOR DAWN. I wish the FAUST stuff would come out frequently.

DC

As of this writing on 1/16/92, the hustle and bustle of the X-mas season already seems like a distant thought. The comic market during the last of '91 felt like a feeding frenzy at the zoo and buy, the public did.

With some hesitation, collections acquiesced and gobbled up Robin. Newsstand versions (same hologram) did better than expected and are the only versions fetching a back issue price at this point. Speaking of DC, what's with the Batguy lately? BATMAN/JUDGE DREDD, MASTER OF THE FUTURE and RED RAIN, all instant sellouts. Still on the stands and selling tremendously is BATMAN/PREDATOR. Still dead on the stands and making very little impact, Impact Comics (surely biting the dust sometime in '92!)

MARVEL

As for Marvel, still the bull in this bearish market. Mutant stuff is still a kicker, but the pace has slowed since the heat of the summer. X-FORCE #1 is at $3.00 each along with X-MEN A-D at $3.00, with E and #2 up of both titles still at cover. PUNISHER #56-59, gone off the stands, easily moves at $3.50 a pop when they filter in. WARLOCK and the INFINITY WATCH, very brisk, along with HEARTS OF DARKNESS. UNCANNY X-MEN & AMAZING SPIDER-MAN are still our best back issue movers, just one step ahead of GHOST RIDER and DARKHAWK.

MARVEL

Marvel sales as a percentage have risen substantially due to better marketing and higher exposure. The new Punisher title is selling well. Todd McFarlane's SPIDER-MAN continues to sell well in this area. Not much response so far to Marvel's four-part "Operation: Galactic Storm" crossover. There is some resistance to these epics as many customers are sticking to budget. Some distributors have limited return policies now which encourage a wider selection by stores.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Overall sales have remained steady since my last report in the fall. Comic companies are using some of the selling techniques of book publishers i.e. die-cut covers (WOLVERINE #50), embossed covers (NEXT MEN #1), etc. Posterity will tell if these methods are successful. More customers seem to be buying comics for enjoyment rather than future profit. I hope this trend continues as one only has to look at the card hobby to see where that kind of thing leads to.

Alternate comic sales remain almost non-existent. A far cry from the halcyon days of the mid-eighties when comics like ADOLESCENT RADIOACTIVE BLACK BELT HAMSTERS were big sellers for a month or two!

The big news out at DC this month is the introduction of their trading cards. Anticipation has been high by both comic collectors and card collectors. BATMAN is keeping DC competitive with his miniseries, GOTHAM NIGHTS, and the conclusion of the mega-hit BATMAN VS. PREDATOR. Also, in BATMAN #476, Batman reveals his secret identity to Vicki Vale. I'll believe it when I see it!

MARVEL

Marvel continues to pump out some great comics. The two big issues for this month will be MARVEL COMICS PRESENTS #100 and the return of Luke Cage to his own title. The X-titles continue their stranglehold on the public. The "Galactic Storm" crossover series has been moderately effective. Don't miss AMAZING SPIDER-MAN #361 when Spidey teams up with Venom!! Should be interesting. Both GHOST RIDER and DEATHLOK are keeping up the pace.

INDEPENDENTS

Dark Horse continues to be the hottest independent. With series like THE YOUNG INDIANA JONES, THE NEXT MEN, STAR WARS, PREDATOR: BLOODY SANDS OF TIME, ALIENS: THE HIVE and TERMINATOR, what else would you expect? This month marks the debut of Rob Liefeld for Malibu Comics. YOUNGBLOOD should give Malibu its biggest hit ever. As well, Revolutionary Comics are doing very well with their sports line, many card collectors have gotten interested in them!

Hello from Malaysia! "Apa khabar?" (How are you?)

DC

BATMAN had new sparring partners like Predator, Judge Dredd and Dracula! And, holy holograms! Robin was not to be left out with a marketing gimmick that ensured its place in the Top Ten. DC's ARMAGEDDON series headed for.....(you guessed it) Armageddon! LOBO PARAMILITARY CHRISTMAS SPECIAL just missed the Top Ten.

MARVEL

What a year 1991 has been! Marvel surged in sales with titles like Jim Lee's X-MEN and X-FORCE. Still riding high are the rest of the X-titles with the exception of Alan Davis' EXCALIBUR. Won't be long now before Marvel drops the "E" to make this another "X" title. +ADAM WARLOCK & THE INFINITY WATCH is a new entry continuing the infinite sales of INFINITY GAUNTLET. Spidey is still hanging on despite McFarlane's leaving. Finally. HEARTS OF DARKNESS just made it into the Top Ten, a disheartening position considering that you have three of Marvel's hottest honchos in one book! GHOST RIDER just missed the Top Ten. Art-wise, Jim Lee is mega-hot! X-MEN sales are double that of UNCANNY X-MEN and sales of UNCANNY X-MEN have doubled since last year. Rob Liefeld and Simon Bisley are also favourites. The return of Alan Davis to EXCALIBUR and John Byrne to SHE-HULK, sad to say, did not increase sales by much.

INDEPENDENTS

Just outside of the Top Ten are STAR WARS: DARK EMPIRE and ALIENS: GENOCIDE. Dark Horse's movie licenses are popular here. Jademan's Hong Kong comics are average sellers but are doing better than titles like WONDER MAN, IRON MAN, SLEEPWALKER and MARVEL COMICS PRESENTS. Viz's Japanese translations also has its following. However, we have censorship problems with titles like CRYING FREEMAN.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Fans here always complain about delays, i.e. HARD BOILED and books not in mint condition (can't be helped when the books travel half way round the world and have to go through distributors, truckers, airlines, Customs, censors and forwarders before they finally reach us!)

Dear CVM,

Now, a few tips for all the new investors out there. First, read the "Regional Reports" for the dealer's advice on the best-moving back issues. Then, read the "Future Picks" for tips on hot things to come: it's better to have a warning that something could be a sell-out than to go to a comic shop and discover that they're already sold out. Next, take a look at the top 100 list; this will help you determine how well the dealer's think a book will sell. Finally, be patient and spend your money wisely. If a comic doesn't increase right away, hold onto it, and you may just be surprised. I remember when I bought New Mutants #87 for a dollar, because I heard a major character would be introduced. It stayed low for quite awhile but now, as I write this (it will probably be more by the time this letter is printed), it's worth $55.00. That's a 5400% increase. While most comics don't experience that much of a jump, if you invest your money wisely, you should be rewarded in the future.

That's about all for now, so, until we meet again, "Live long and prosper." 'Nuff said.

James Maxlow, Williamsburg, VA.

Dear James,

Sorry we couldn't include your letter in total, but space did not permit. Thanks for your "tips" on how to use C.V.M. We couldn't have put it better ourselves.

S.J.

Dear CVM,

As a person with a large collection of comic books in a fairly small town, I sometimes entertain questions from novices just beginning to jump into comic collecting. Many of the inquiries are good ones, but some of them are a little alarming and I'd like to address a couple of them here in order to pass on my humble opinion to a larger audience of newcomers.

Q: What comics should I collect?

A: For gosh sakes, collect what you like to read! I started collecting comics about 1977, but I didn't really realize it until much later. I bought comics I enjoyed reading, remained faithful to my favorite titles and held on to them. Several years of this behavior results in a pretty impressive collection of books.

Q: What comics are the most valuable?

A: The ones which bring you enjoyment, of course. It's nice that some (most, actually) comics appreciate in monetary value, but to a collector, this should be incidental. I honestly believe that if you are simply collecting comics so that you can watch their dollar value rise every month, you are dead inside. If you don't collect comics because you love comics, then you're really missing the boat.

I'd like to sincerely welcome anyone just starting to get their feet wet in this magnificent obsession of ours and hope that my words will be helpful.

Richard Stacey, Nacodoches, TX.

Dear Richard,

In our "humble" opinion, you have provided excellent answers to age-old questions. Read your comics and enjoy, people!!

S.J.

To S.J. (consultant extraordinaire).

Ho, Steve! I started collecting comic books about the middle of the summer. I walked into a comic store and emptied my wallet. Since then, I've been flipping out money and pulling in comics. My parents think I'm nutso. They don't think pieces of paper are worth spending money on. I do! I just read C.V.M. #66. Yikes! The prices are not going the right way. I know you've probably been asked this a hundred times, but how do you find your prices? Chill, I'm new at this.

I am not a very good source, but I'm new at this. I love mail ordering; it's the only way to go. I find cheaper prices and nice people. I recommend to all readers to use mail ordering, but be careful, a lot of them will gyp you very easily. So far, I'd say that I've spend $400.00 on comic books, 3/4 of that was by mail order. At first, I collected baseball cards. They're dumb and expensive. They offer numbers and a picture while comic books offer reading, art and they're a better investment....SWITCH! Baseball cards are nothing; come into the world of comic pandemonium. Oh, I forgot to say, C.V.M. IS THE BEST SOURCE FOR COMIC BOOK PRICES!!!

Well, back to comics. You know how Warlock is getting his own series? Well, I advise getting Warlock appearances for they're bound to go up. I also recommend X-Force, X-Factor, and Uncanny X-Men (not X-Men yet 'cause it has so many copies in print that it will take awhile to increase in value).

Well, Danke! (That's "thanks" in German).

Comic Crazy Chas Danner (CCCD)

P.S.- A list of what the initials C.V.M should stand for: Comic Value Masters, Comic Value Meisters, (The) Comic Values (of) Mankind, (It's) Comic Value Man.

Yo crazy one,

Nutso? Tell your parents that money is pieces of paper also, and that everyone wants to collect them!

Our prices come from a wide range of Elvis sightings in addition to our trained psychic staff. But note, just like the stock market, prices can go up and down (did I say that last month?) Mail order is a good alternative source to the comic book store. It's best for bulk orders and back issues that may be difficult to find. Both stores and mail order outlets have their advantages. We would be interested to hear more on this.

Adieu, Aufwiedersehen, Adios

(C.V.Multilingual S.J.)

Dear C.V.Monthly,

Why can I never find any prices for adult comics? I've heard that there is a relatively good market for these comics, but I've never been able to find any information on their current values (or do they go up in price?)

Secondly (and I have money riding on your answer, so please reply), is a comic book considered a magazine? My friend and I have decided not to accept public opinion as the final judgement, as it is too varied, and so have decided yours would be the deciding vote. Even so, we would still be quite interested in hearing what our fellow collectors think.

Kurt Lindhurst, Flint, MI.

Dear Kurt,

1.) Yes, there is a very big market for adult comics and big prices to match, although at present, there is no comprehensive adult-oriented price guide. You may wish to check out advertisements in C.B.G. and Comics Journal or Kitchen Sink Press or Rip Off Press for adult material. (Adult books are intended for persons 21 years or older).

2.) Now to the comic book/magazine argument: Webster's Dictionary defines a comic book as, "A book of comic strips" whereas the definition of a magazine is "A periodical containing a collection of articles, stories, pictures, or other features." So, it looks as though you both have a point. However, the market does refer to some over-sized comic books as "magazine-size." Still, as you suggest, we would love to hear from publishers, dealers and collectors on this point. (I always though a magazine was a stock of ammunition!? I guess I'll have to bite the bullet on that one!)

CARE AND FEEDING OF YOUR COMIC COLLECTION

Part 3: Making the Grade

By Dr. G. Ross

Many times, different terms such as "good" or "fine" apply to the grade of a comic book. In fact, Comics Values Monthly lists comics in reference to their price as "near mint." But what does this all mean? How does it apply to collecting comics? How important is grading?

First of all, the grading of comics is done to determine their price. However, grading is a visual description that is subjective. It isn't always likely that any two graders will agree on any exact grade of a given comic book; there will always be plenty of reasons for disagreement. The key point that anyone grading comic books should keep in mind is that the grading of the comic should reflect its overall state of preservation. Having two different grades of a comic book doesn't mean that one is right and the other is wrong, but that each grader has focused in on different flaws or characteristics that he/she considers important. This is almost always the case; one grader almost always considers a book a half grade up or down from the other grader.

It is important to realize that when arguing about grading, one is really arguing about how much any given book is worth. Remember, when disputing with a dealer over the grade of a comic, one should really focus on the price. If the comic is visually right, one should attain an approximate idea of what grade the book is -- fine or very fine -- and then offer a price according to condition and scarcity. Even if the dealer has the book priced at mint, keep in mind that the comic book market is a pure market. Prices are determined solely by buyer and seller. (Don't be afraid to make an offer based on what you feel the true value is.) Dealers will overprice to a certain extent, expecting a lower offer. The lower a price paid for each book, the greater the potential to realize a profit in a shorter period of time.

As an overview to understanding grading, comics are produced primarily for reading. Typically, they have been produced in the past on cheap newsprint paper in an "assembly line" type of format. It is hardly surprising that finding an absolutely perfect copy of any given comic, with no stress marks on the spine, is extremely difficult (if not impossible). Nevertheless, the word "mint" is used to denote a perfect copy.

Each grade can exist on a 1-10 basis. For example, a MINT 1 would be a better condition comic than a MINT 10. A MINT 10 may have minute color fading or some other almost imperceptible defect. The use of a grade and number together gives a more complete artistic of the comic book.

GRADES

MINT (M): A theoretical abstract rarely seen, this is a perfect comic book with the staples lined up precisely on the same geometric line dissecting the spine. It contains 90 degree square corners that are right angled. There are no cc (corner creases) or spine stress lines of any type. It is also full gloss containing full white pages and colors. Arrival dates stamped neatly in ink or pencilled/penned in dates on the cover are allowed as they are considered part of the original comic. Comic books in mint condition bring in a minimum of 100% (and up). In many cases, the price of a comic book has been many multiples of the M (or NEAR MINT) price.

NEAR MINT (NM): This denotes that a comic book is only one visible flaw away from being an M comic. It usually has three to six extremely faint spine creases which are allowed in this grade with no cc. Most comic books on the newsstand are in the NM condition. Comics in NM bring between 86 and 100% of the M price.

VERY FINE (VF): An extremely high grade comic. Many graders routinely use the term VF/NM as denoting the highest grade that can exist. More spine wear is permitted. In most circles, a mint comic with a 1/16 in. cc can be called VF. Points that must be present still include square corners, near full gloss and off-white to white pages. Minute 1/16" tears or "Marvel chips" on the front cover can be permitted. "Marvel chipping" is a term used to explain the small chips found on the other edge of so many early Marvel comics, but especially on key issues like Amazing Fantasy #15, Avengers #1, Daredevil #1, Fantastic Four #1, Journey Into Mystery #83, Tales to Astonish #27 and X-Men #1. Comics in VF condition bring between 70 and 85% of the M price.

FINE (F): This is a grade that is difficult to define. Fine can be arrived at the comic being in the stated condition which includes multiple light 1/4" or less in length spine creases with minute cc of 1/16" or less. Many graders will not allow any cc of any given length; the corners must be square and right angled to these people. Staples must be free of rust. Pages must be off-white or white. Minute trace browning on the outer edges is acceptable, but may not be desirable. No spine roll is allowed. A comic in very fine condition with extensive Marvel chipping would be called a VF 10 or an F 1. Comics in fine bring between 40 and 60% of the M price.

VERY GOOD (VG): This is a comic book with extensive visual wear. Defects include heavy spine marks, multiple corner cc, multiple minor wears not extending beyond 2/5". The comic cannot have any tape repairs, gluing, indelible marker on spine (amateur restoration) or any other gross defects. However, the comic can have extensive Marvel chipping, yellowing, more extensive browning and other obvious defects such as spine rolls, subscription creases, large store stamps and small pen marks. A VG comic book is worn, but not totally dogged out> Comics in VG bring in between bring between 30 and 40% of the M price.

GOOD (G): This is an extremely worn and weathered copy. It may have up to 2" tears on spine and/or covers along with browning, brittleness, binder holes, tape repairs, amateur restoration, water stains, inking, fading, sun damaged and many more. It may have trimmed and/or chopped (the corner may have been clipped off). Any comic book cover not attached to the interior pages or in an incomplete state (missing pages) is to be thought of as being fair. Comics in good condition bring between 10 and 20% of the M price.

FAIR (F): A comic in fair condition may have missing ads, missing story pages or part of the front cover. Key issues can and do bring in excess of the good price, but most others are usually priced between 30-70% of G.

POOR (P): A typically poor comic book would be one that has been dipped in a vat of water or run over by a truck in the mud. It is the lowest grade possible. Including coverless copies, poor comics bring between 10 and 50% of the G price.

CVM SPOTLIGHT ON 1992

Part Two

By Neil A. Hansen

It's way after Christmas. You've finally recovered from the holidays and have more of a clear head. As we promised last month, CVM continues its spotlight on 1992.

DC Comics has major plans with their line, including several new series, spinoffs revivals and a major crossover.

Since the Batman movie is coming out this summer followed by an animated television series this fall, DC has decided to expand their Batman titles in addition to adding Batman-related specials.

In April, Batman takes on the Riddler in a three-issue prestige miniseries entitled Run, Riddler, Run written by Gerard Jones and drawn by Mark Badger. In May, DC adds its first Batman title that directly ties in with events occurring in Batman and Detective Comics called Batman: Shadow of the Bat, written by Bat-creators Alan Grant and Norm Breyfogle.

To coincide with the movie, DC is adapting Batman Returns as the caped crusader takes on the combined threats of Catwoman and the Penguin with script by Batman editor, Denny O'Neil and art by Steve Erwin and Jose Luis Garcia Lopez.

Beginning in August, Robin returns to a third miniseries hot on the heels of last year's Robin II: Joker's Wild. Other Batman projects scheduled for 1992 include: a two issue Man-Bat prestige series painted by John Bolton; a Catwoman graphic novel by Peter Milligan, Tom Grindberg and Dick Giordano, a Penguin graphic novel by John Ostrander and Joe Staton; a Ra's Al Ghul graphic novel written by O'Neil and painted by Breyfogle; and a Batman/ Green Arrow one-shot by O'Neil and Grindberg.

"Scott Hampton is also painting a Batman project," said Neal Pozner, DC's manager of creative affairs.

Lobo's Back! This new four-issue miniseries pits the homicidal party animal against an even badder bastiche of the galaxy named Loo. Keith Giffen, Grant and Simon Bisley take on the creative chores. Future mini-series include: Lobo: Infanticide by Grant and Erik Larsen, and an untitled mini-series by Grant and Sam Kieth.

DC expands the Green Lantern universe as Hal Jordan takes over the lead title by Jones and Mark Bright. Green Lantern: Mosaic is a miniseries that spotlights John Stewart by Cully Hamner and Dan Panosian due about April. In May, Guy Gardner appears in a prestige format miniseries by Jones and Staton, followed by an ongoing title in October. In the same month, Green Lantern Quarterly debuts spotlighting the other Green Lanterns.

Tentatively scheduled within the Justice League titles is a new JL title (currently unnamed) and a new Justice Society of America book as well as a Martian Manhunter miniseries drawn by Ed Barretto.

The New Titans is also increasing spinoff titles. Team Titans features the heroes that debuted in New Titans Annual #7 while Hybrid features the team that debuted in New Teen Titans #24 (second series). Finally, the long awaited Nightwing miniseries is being drawn by Art Thibert.

Editor Micheal Eury promised big changes with The Legion of Super-Heroes. #26 started a multi-issue storyline entitled "Terra Mosaic" in which Eury warned that many Legionnaires would die by #36. #39 is double sized; it kicks off the companion Legionnaires title featuring the clones of the Legion who were created in the Dominator pods. The result will end with the Legion of Super Heroes out in space while the Legionnaires protect Earth. Eury said that Legionnaires will be "similar to the old Legions, but has a '90's feel."

Timber Wolf spins off into his own miniseries written and inked by Al Gordon with pencils by Joe Phillips which Eury hopes will kick off a futuristic espionage/superhero series entitled Point Force.

Regarding the Doom Patrol, a new one-shot special called Doom Force focuses on, said editor Tom Peyer, "pointless fights and familiar characterization. It will remind people of comics done today. It's not a replacement for Doom Patrol." The line-up includes Dorothy Spinner, the confident field commander; Shasta, the Living Mountain, a tortured teenager able to transform into a mountain "complete with skiers and ski lifts;" Scratch, a dangerous berserker that has a really tough glove "with pliers, wrench and other tools;" Flux, an Australian shape shifter; and Crying Boy, who has bad luck powers ("In the middle of a fight, the villain will get a telegram with bad news," said Peyer.) The group is led by Niles Caulder, and takes place a year into the future.

"The idea is to tell 20 pages of story over 56 pages of comics," Peyer said.

Written by Grant Morrison, Doom Force is drawn by Giffen, Richard Case, Ken Steacy and Walt Simonson among others.

In the tradition of Armageddon 2001 comes this summer's Eclipso: Heart Of Darkness plotted by Giffen and drawn by Bart Sears and Randy Elliott. Eclipso's two issues will crossover into all the major DC annuals. According to editor Eury, "Eclipso possesses the superheroes to amass an army to do his bidding."

Eclipso will receive an ongoing series following the crossover which "will be a horror book firmly in the DC universe." The other spinoff from this crossover series is The Worlds of Valor which focuses on the 20th century space spanning adventures of the Legion's Lar Gand.

"He'll be based on Earth in the first few issues," said Eury. Appearances will be made by Lex Luthor, Jr. and "a major DC villain."

The Outsiders return in late 1992 by Mike Barr and Bryan Hitch. According to editor Mike Carlin, it features "Geo-Force, Halo, Katana, Looker and some new characters. An incident in Markovia makes them outlaws. They have to clear their name and find out who set them up."

Other series due out in '92 include: Death, a spinoff from Sandman written by Neil Gaiman; Sandman Mystery Theater by Matt Wagner featuring the '40's hero; Spectre by Ostrander and Tom Mandrake; Howard Chaykin's fantasy hero, Iron Wolf drawn by Mike Mignola and Craig Russell; new ongoing Black Canary and Ragman titles; and Modesty Blaise, the classic British strip character by writer/creator Peter O'Donnell and artist Giordano.

In contrast, Disney Comics is concentrating its efforts on Disney collectors and younger readers, as opposed to competing with the other comics companies, according to Disney marketing executive, Teri Sokol-Kachur.

Walt Disney's Comics & Stories #571 will be a special 64-page issue. It reprints the classic Donald Duck's Atom Bomb by Carl Barks, originally done in 1947, for a Cheerios premium. Also included is Bubbles, the Water Baby, a prequel to the Little Mermaid.

"If the retailers support it and fans buy it, more special issues will follow," said Sokol-Kachur.

Other material due to be reprinted include: Race to The South Seas and Darkest Africa from March of Comics #41(1949) and #20, respectively. There is also discussion of reprinting vintage Floyd Gottfredson artwork from 1929, before he worked for Disney.

In the meantime, Millenium adds two titles in March, two in May and many more later in 1992.

Doc Savage: Doom Dynasty begins in March. Running two issues, Millenium publisher Paul Davis said, "The series explores the relationship with Doc and his father, Clark Savage, Sr. with villains and an exotic threat."

Creative chores on the classic pulp hero created by Lester Dent are by Mark Ellis, Terry Collins and Mike Wiernago. Covers are by Brian Stelfreeze, whom Paul Davis said is a big fan of Doc Savage.

The big title in March from Millenium is its new Weird Tales Illustrated #1 which will adapt tales from the '30's-'40's pulp horror magazine, Weird Tales. There will be two editions. Stories include "Party Games" a new story by Faye Perozich and John Bolton; "Shattered Like A Glass Goblin" an adaptation of Harlan Ellison's story by Kelley Jones; and "Visitor From Egypt" a classic tale by Frank Belknap Long adapted and illustrated by Eddy Newell. The regular edition retails at $2.95. The collector's edition is prestige format and contains a bonus story by Les Daniels and Tim Vigil, and also includes art from the original Weird Tales. It will retail at $4.95.

In May, there will be a new mini-series based on H.P. Lovecraft's Cthulhu featuring Belknap Long's contribution to the Cthulhu mythos. The whole world is threatened when a curious investigator takes a forbidden drug, unleashing demonic hounds from another dimension. Story is adapted by Terry Collins and Don Heck.

The Doc Savage Handbook (Special) #1 tells all about Doc and his fabulous five.

"It's a humorous story which will take the readers through Doc's headquarters," Davis said.

As well as containing interior art by Stelfreeze, The special includes a Doc Savage pin-up by Tim Truman and a Pat Savage pin-up by Adam Hughes. A special bonus is a never before published newspaper strip from the 40's. "It was just sitting in Lester Dent's hallway," said Davis.

New titles not yet scheduled include an adaptation of the '50's horror film, It! The Terror From Outer Space, and a revival of Justice Machine, originally created by Mike Gustovich.

"All of the rights (to Justice Machine) have been sold to Millenium," said Davis. "This will be our first foray into superhero adventure."

Les Daniels' novel Black Castle is being adapted to comics and painted by paperback artist Duncan Eagleston. The comic features the adventures of Don Sebastion, a vampire who visits the grimmest periods in history. According to Davis, "The story takes place during the Spanish Inquisition."

Moving ahead in time, Dark Horse Comics has received the rights to two of the most popular independent characters of the 1980's: Grendel and Nexus.

Grendel: The Final Saga (title tentative) takes place after the last Comico issue of Grendel (#40). The story which Dark Horse marketing director Bob Schreck described as "futuristic with lots of leather clad motorcycle types" follows the recent Orion Assante storyline. This ten-issue miniseries is written and inked by Grendel creator, Matt Wagner and pencilled by Pat McEwon. It will begin shipping in August with covers by Simon Bisley.

Nexus returns to comics in July as creators Mike Baron and Steve Rude begin anew with a 48-page origin book packaged similarly to Star Wars: Dark Empire. This will be followed by Nexus: The Liberator, a three-issue miniseries solicited by First Comics years ago, but never saw print. The creative team is Stefan Petrucha, writer and John Calimee, artist. Following this will be a three-issue Nexus miniseries by Baron and Rude.

Hard Looks, shipping in March from Dark Horse, is a new bi-monthly anthology adapting short stories by best selling author, Andrew Vachss with different creative teams as well as a new short story each issue by Vachss.

"All of them are crime stories (and) child abuse issues will creep in from time to time," said Schreck.

© 1992 Cinema '84

In April, Dark Horse adapts the Residents concept rock album, Freak Show, into a 72- page graphic novel with artwork by Kyle Baker, Dave McKean and John Bolton among others. Described in a Dark Horse press release as "unsettling, disturbing and provocative," it will retail at $9.95.

The long awaited RoboCop versus Terminator, a four-issue miniseries ships in May, written by Frank Miller and drawn by Walt Simonson. About the story's plot, Schreck joked, "Well, it's about these two guys discussing their lives over a cup of Cappucino. Actually, it's about two robots pounding the hell out of each other, and there will be time travel involved."

Other titles scheduled from Dark Horse include a RoboCop 3 adaptation, an Aliens 3 adaptation and a new RoboCop series scheduled for the summer. Dark Horse has also opened an international division housed in London.

Instead of expanding his line by leaps and bounds, publisher Joseph Naftali has focused the majority of Continum Comics' efforts on his 818-year-old ninja superhero, The Dark. "We sold 12,000 issues of The Dark #1 without any advertising whatsoever," said Naftali. Plans include artwork in future issues by fan faves Larry Stroman and Mark Bright. Naftali is also producing The Dark Convention Book with sketches by Ray Lago, Bob McLeod and many more artists which will black & white with color cover.

Meanwhile, Tundra is breaking new ground with their line. Beginning spring '92, Tundra will launch a new line of English translations of European graphic novels beginning with Margot in Bedtown in March followed by Wind of the Gods, originally serialized in Heavy Metal and many more graphic albums.

"We have a 'first option' agreement with Limelight entertainment," said Ann Eagen, promotion director for Tundra. (Limelight Entertainment is responsible for the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle movies as well as music videos, commercials, television and other feature films.) "(What this means is) they have the first option to produce any of our titles into movies or television shows."

According to a Tundra press release, Simon Fields, Limelight majority owner said of the agreement, "The relationship gives Limelight a direct tap into the most innovative talents in the comic book world."

In October, Bernie Wrightson is writing and drawing a five-issue miniseries featuring his cult hero, Captain Sternn. Sternn first appeared in Heavy Metal and made an appearance in the Heavy Metal movie.

Whew!! Despite the promise to end the spotlight, it looks like we haven't touched the surface. Watch for news on the Turtles, the Hero Comics/Comics Interview crossover, Caliber's two new comics lines and more. Until then, see you in the funny pages.
